November 17, 2017 - Dr. Andy Tao, a professor of biochemistry in the College of Agriculture who has a courtesy appointment in the Department of Medicinal Chemistry and Molecular Pharmacology, is the 2017 recipient of the Outstanding Commercialization Award for Purdue University faculty. He is recognized for discovering a method to detect and monitor breast cancer using a simple blood test and bladder cancer using a urine test. Read more here.