Pharmacy is among the most legislated professions as federal and state legislation is continuously shaping and advancing practice. Associated with this, pharmacists have the opportunity to impact the legislative process by way of advocacy, which aids in further expanding practice. It is important that pharmacists understand the legislative process and remain up-to-date on new and upcoming developments. At large, the more pharmacists involve themselves, the further the pharmacy profession can progress.

Speaker:

Veronica Vernon, PharmD
Assistant Professor of Pharmacy Practice, Butler University
Clinical Pharmacy Specialist – Ambulatory Care (GYN, Primary Care)
Indianapolis, IN

This speaker has no financial relationships to disclose.

Learning Objectives:

1. Describe the steps in the legislation process.
2. Explain how pharmacists can impact the legislation process and further advance pharmacy practice.
3. Discuss recent legislation impacting the profession of pharmacy and public health.

10:00 a.m. to 10:10 a.m. Break – Introductions

- According to the United Health Foundation, 30.9% of the nation’s population is categorized as obese (body mass index >30 kg/m²) and the annual medical cost of obesity has reached $344 billion. Associated with this, there are countless diet strategies, but which one is optimal? Recent research shows a variability in response to diet plans based on a patient’s age, gender, physical activity, obesity phenotype, disease states, medications, and more suggesting that weight loss techniques should be individualized. To illustrate the importance of this topic, the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists recommends that pharmacists counsel patients on healthy weight management and lifestyle modifications. In addition, the accessibility of community pharmacists offers the opportunity to counsel patients and create individualized advice regarding dietary options.*

Speaker:

Lynn Thoma, PharmD
Clinical Pharmacist, HealthLinc Community Health Center

This speaker has no financial relationships to disclose.

Learning Objectives:

1. Identify prevalence, causes, and adverse effects of obesity.
2. Describe popular diet techniques in the context of long-term efficacy, impact on disease states, and impact on medications.
3. Discuss the role of the pharmacist in providing evidence-based advice to patients regarding individualized weight management strategies.

3:30 p.m. to 3:50 p.m.

Wrap-Up – Jane Krause, BS 1981, MS 1994

Community Service Project for Pharmacy Women for Purdue Attendees

Service Project Partner – It's My Closet, Lafayette, Indiana

In December 2005, Jefferson High School [Lafayette School Corporation (LSC)] opened a store called It's My Closet to help meet some of the challenges of children/youth living in poverty in the local community. Currently, 68% of LSC students qualify for free or reduced lunches. The philosophy behind It's My Closet is to help nurture the promise of the future for children/youth in need.

It's My Closet, specializing in household items, is open for LSC students and their families, children in need with their Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA), children from Cary Home, women and their children from the YWCA Domestic Violence shelter, and families who have lost their homes due to fires or floods. All items are given to shoppers at no cost. The store is located in two portable classrooms (donated by LSC) and all workers are volunteers.

It's My Closet is in need of the following items:

- notebook paper (wide or college ruled)
- #2 wooden pencils
- toilet paper (4 pack)
- new underwear for girls (sizes 6-14 and women's sizes 5-6; no thongs)
- new underwear for boys (all sizes boys and men)
- new socks for children
- boxes of facial tissues
- stick deodorant
- shampoo or conditioner (any size except bulk sizes)
- bars of soap
- individually wrapped toothbrushes
- toothpaste
- sunscreen
- tampons
- diapers

It's My Closet would appreciate donations of these items as well as monetary gifts. A representative from It's My Closet will be on hand to collect these items. Thank you for your consideration.
